DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-14 are pending. Claims 1-9 are withdrawn from consideration as being drawn to a non-elected invention.
2. The September 8, 2004 Final Rejection is withdrawn. The Examiner regrets the lack of compact prosecution, but the action is deemed warranted given the newly discovered prior art.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 10-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lyden US 7,016,867.

Lyden discloses a shoe distribution center, e.g. cols. 5-13, lines 22-45, col. 83, lines 44-57, comprising at least one identified last, e.g. 80, Figs. 1, 29, 42, 155, 159, 174, 175, 252, 323, 326, 338, 349, 350, 423, 424, 425, 433, 434, 435, 512, and a footwear inventory, e.g. component parts used for each piece of footwear, and a footwear manufacturing unit, e.g. Fig. 252, element (c), Fig. 253, element (c), using moldable thermoplastic material, e.g. Figs. 309, 445, 446, 501, SPECTRUM™ manufactured by the Dow Chemical Company. Lyden does not specifically disclose an order receiving unit. Official Notice is taken that ordering receiving units associated with customer orders for footwear has been common knowledge in the shoe distribution art. To have provided such with the custom shoe ordering system of Lyden would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art. The motivation for having done such would have been to facilitate well known commerce to increase sales.

Art Unit: 3627

5. Further references of interest disclose shoe ordering systems. See attached PTO-892.
